Marksmanship: Why We MISS

Sat., October 14, 2006 • 9 AM – 4:30 PM • LIMIT 12 • Cost $25
Harvard, Massachusetts

Have you already had some firearms training, and found that you aren't shooting as well as you'd like? Have you gone on hunt or two and missed your mark, even though you were "right on" at the range? This new workshop is for you! Learn how the human body, the shooting equipment, and the environment interact (sometimes in surprising ways) to affect performance, particularly in a hunting situation. Instructors Bob Trapnell and Karen Nottonson thoroughly review shooting fundamentals and the basics of choosing the right equipment and setting it up correctly. Firearms, ammunition, targets and lunch will be provided. (Do not bring your own gun to this workshop.) Limit: 12 • Cost: $25

OPTIONAL "B. Y. O. FIREARM" DAY:

Sunday, October 15, 2006 • 9 AM – 3:00 PM • LIMIT 12 • COST $25

Open to those who have taken the Marksmanship Workshop on Saturday.

Not available separately.

If you already have your own firearm (rifle or slug shotgun), today is the day to bring it! (Target rifles will be available for those without their own firearms.) After a safety check, you will work at your own pace, sighting in your rifle or slug gun and practicing shooting fundamentals in pursuit of that elusive bull's-eye! Instructors Bob Trapnell and Karen Nottonson will be available for assistance. Lunch and targets will be provided.

Limit: 12 • Cost: $25
